Home Education in France

New Research Fields, New Approaches?

Home education ("instruction en famille (IEF)") is of growing interest in France. In the international scientific literature about homeschooling, the French case as well as French scholarship have long been overlooked. Since 2018, a CY INEX and ANR funded research team has been investigating the topic in an unprecedented way. The conference concludes this collective project by inviting scholars to discuss these French research designs and results. Three main questions are at stake: i) do French homeschooling and French scholarship differ from international homeschooling practices and studies? ii) how might research about home education contribute to mainstream education research? iii) what directions should we consider to initiate new research? The conference is linked with a book in progress, to be published in 2023. Oral presentations will be in French, with the exception of Panel 6, in English. The conference can be accessed remotely upon prior registration (ema@cyu.fr).
